

Jacqueline Sterner, PhD

Senior Vice President and Head of Medical Writing and Publications

Dr. Jackie Sterner is the Senior Vice President and Head of Medical Writing and Publications at Advyzom. Jackie was instrumental in creating the global medical writing organization at Advyzom. Jackie provides a broad range of global medical writing services for clinical, nonclinical, commercial, and regulatory documents. She brings expertise in the interpretation of clinical trial data and the development of key messages to support regulatory applications and product labeling. Jackie also provides clinical trial data analysis across a broad range of therapeutic areas.

Jackie and her Medical Writing team are experts in authoring Investigator Brochures, protocols, IND Summaries, Clinical Study Reports, NDA/MAA/BLA High Level Summaries, Pediatric Plans, Orphan Drug Applications, Fast Track, Break Through, REMS, and Health Authority Briefing Packages including Advisory Committees.

Jackie has over 24 years of experience in medical writing. Prior to joining Advyzom, Jackie was formerly North American Head of Medical Writing and Editing at Hoffman-La Roche Inc/Genentech of Labeling wherein she provided leadership and strategic direction to a staff of 30 medical writers and editors. She received the Roche Olympia Gold Award by reducing time to file a marketing application by 6 weeks. Earlier in her career, Jackie was a Clinical Research and Regulatory Scientist for Quintiles wherein she created clinical regulatory documents.

Jackie earned her Bachelor of Science in Biology (high honors) and her PhD in Biology from the University of Rochester. She was also selected to participate in leadership courses at the London School of Business/Roche Executive Education Program and completed the Rutgers mini-MBA in BioPharma Innovation.
